What is slow, manual or unclear?

We get about 400 applications per open role. To save time, a recruiter pastes the CVs into a free online AI tool, which scores each candidate from 1 to 10. Everyone below 6 gets an automatic rejection email with no human review. We want to scale this to all open roles next quarter.

Your problem

The current method of using a free online AI tool for candidate scoring is not compliant with internal policies and regulations. This poses risks in our hiring practices and could lead to potential issues down the line.

Fix it with an internal tool

Not allowed yet. The approved alternative is to use KAi Assist for drafting summaries of candidate qualifications based on their CVs.

Approved external alternative

Companies like Google and Amazon utilize AI to filter candidates before human intervention, ensuring a more efficient and fair recruitment process.

How others solve it

While some companies have successfully integrated AI in their recruitment processes, they remain cautious about potential biases and inaccuracies in candidate assessments.

Is it allowed?

Compliance level is red. The use of unapproved tools violates internal policy rules R1, R3, R4, and R6 regarding data handling and automated decision-making without human review.
