What is slow, manual or unclear?

We get about 400 applications per open role. To save time, a recruiter pastes the CVs into a free online AI tool, which scores each candidate from 1 to 10. Everyone below 6 gets an automatic rejection email with no human review. We want to scale this to all open roles next quarter.

Your problem

The current method of using a free online AI tool for candidate scoring is not compliant with company policies and regulations.

Fix it with an internal tool

Not allowed yet. The use of unapproved tools violates rules regarding personal data and automated decision-making in hiring.

Approved external alternative

Consider using an approved external AI tool that ensures compliance with company policies and maintains human oversight in the hiring process.

How others solve it

Many companies are adopting AI to enhance candidate evaluation while ensuring fairness by keeping human oversight. This approach helps summarize candidate information and standardizes evaluation criteria.

Is it allowed?

Compliance level is red. The rules violated include R1, R3, R4, and R7, which pertain to the use of unapproved tools for scoring candidates and the handling of personal data in hiring decisions.
