What is slow, manual or unclear?

Every Friday I write the weekly update for my team. I take an aggregated KPI table (contacts per category, average handling time, backlog size, with no names and no user IDs) and write about 150 words on trends, risks and one ask. It takes about an hour, and the tone is different every week. My team lead reads and approves the text before I post it in our team Slack channel.

Your problem

Every Friday, the weekly update writing process takes about an hour. It involves creating a summary based on an aggregated KPI table, which includes metrics like contacts per category and average handling time. The tone varies each week, and the team lead reviews the text before it is posted.

Fix it with an internal tool

KAi Assist

1. Export the KPI sheet (aggregated, D2).
2. Upload it in the Analyse table.
3. Ask for a short update with trends and risks.

Sample request:
You are an ops analyst. From this table, write a 150-word weekly update: 3 trends, 2 risks, 1 ask. Plain German, no jargon.

Approved external alternative

No approved external tool fits this case. Use the internal option above.

How others solve it

Companies are automating weekly updates by using templates and live data integration. This reduces manual tracking and formatting, enhancing efficiency.

Is it allowed?

Compliance level is green, following rules G1, G2, G3, and G5. The use of KAi Assist for drafting the weekly update is compliant as it utilizes internal data and is a pre-approved use.
